highly important advices have been received:

"On the 12th instant the British steam frigates Buzzard and Tartar, and a French war steamer name not known, under command of Captain Peel, of the Buzzard, blockaded the port of Laguayra, taking captive a large number of small coasting vessels anchored therein, and on the 14th, 10 a.m., the same fleet blockaded Porto Cabello, likewise capturing a number of coasting vessels. At the latter port there were thirteen sail taken. On the approach of the war steamers the shipping was deserted by their officers and crew, most of them jumping överboard and swimming to the shore from their vessels that were anchored in the port. Captain Patterson states that the blocdage was caused by the government refusing to give up the person of Gen. Monegas."

CLUE TO THE FATE OF MRS. BRENNAN

We have already given the fact of the disappearance of Mrs. Brennan, wife of Capt. Brennan, of the U. S. army, who, it will be remembered, left Staten Island on the 20th of last month, for the purpose of visiting friends in New York, whom she called upon and left, stating that she intended to return home by the afternoon boat, she being understood to mean to the residence of her mother, at Chelsca, Staten Island, where she was then stopping. She did not return that night, nor has she been seen or heard from since.

She did not return that night, nor has she been seen or heard from since.

Dr. Crane, the brother of the lady, gave the police the facts of the disappearance on the 22d of July, and officers were immediately despatched in search of her, provided with a minute description, and a carte blanche to spend any amount of money necessary to follow up the sighest clue. They spent nearly a month in discovering the fact that Mrs. Brennan, or a lady answering her description, was down to the Staten Island ferry on the 20th of July, just after the five o'clock boat left, and, seeming disappointed, left in an up-town stage. From thence her destination remained untraced until a few days since, when it was ascertained that she, or a lady of similar dress and appearance, had been seen on the seven o'clock boat of the same day, bound for Staten Island. A gentleman, whose attention had been attracted to the case by the extensive notices in the newspapers, gave information that he had noticed this hady on the vening referred to, and had observed a disappointment save information that he had noticed this lady on the evening referred to, and had observed a disappointment in her manner, which is accounted for by the fact of her missing the Port Richmond boat, on which she is said to have expressed a desire to go.

The gentleman referred to states that he observed the haly land at quarantine, proceed to a livery stable and hire a carriage; that shortly after she entered the vehicle a strange, man, approached, nucle to the driver, and nice a carriage; that shortly after she entered the ven-cle a strange man approached, spoke to the driver, and then jumped in, and the driver drove off. It is also said that the strange man was noticed on the boat with an evident sinister aspect; that the lady did not notice him that the strange man was noticed on the boat with an evident sinister aspect; that the lady did not notice him on the boat, being apparently busy with her own reflections, and much perplexed. The gentleman who made these observations is said to be unable to recognise the strange man who got into the carriage or the driver, on account of the darkness, but at that time of the year it could hardly have been dark at half-past seven, the time for the boat to arrive at quarantine. The livery-stable keeper has been called upon, and he remembers a lady of the description of Mrs. Brenuan coming to him on the evening of thatdray, and wanting to hire a carriage, but states that he referred her to one of the drivers, with whom she made an arrangement, but he cannot tell which one. He recollects her asking him whether he was acquainted with Dr. Crane. The drivers have been successively questioned on the subject, and one of them has been held for giving very unsatisfactory answers as to his whereabouts and doings on the night referred to. An examination is to be held next week, when it is anticipated that something to throw light on this truly mysterious affair will be elicited. It is said that the police are satisfied that the hely was robbed or worse treates!, murdered and thrown into the middle of the river.

TRAGEDY AT FINCASTLE, VA.

The correspondent of the Petersburg Express furnishes the particulars of a tragedy that occurred at Fincastle, Virginia, on the 26th instant. The parties were Mr. H. W. Bowyer, a large farmer and highly respectable gentleman, and Mr. James McDowell, president of one of the banks of Fincastle, and an extensive merchant. The former came in possession of what he considered conclusive proof that the latter had been instrumental in the ruin of his daughter. Acting on this belief, Mr. Bowyer sought Mr. McDowell, found him in the bank, and drawing a pistol, fired at him several times, two balls taking effect in the chest and abdomen, producing mortal weunds, from which he died on the following day. Both the principals in the affair have for many years occupied prominent positions in Botetonir counity. Mr. B. belongs to an old and highly respectable family, and is himself a wealthy and intelligent farmer. Mr. McD. has at different times filled various responsible posts at home and abroad—during the administration of President Polk he was U. S. consul at Glasgow—and at the time of his death was president of the Farmers' Bank, at Fincastle. Mr. B. has been committed for trial by the circuit court.

THE WARRENTON HOMICIDE. - We have already stated that James Green was re-arrested and held to bail for causing the death of Quinten Carver, at Warrenton Springs, recently. A correspondent of the Alexandria Gazette gives the particulars of the examination, which took place before the County Court on the 27th inst., from which we learn that the Commonwealth's Attorney moved a continuance of the case until the September term of the court; and R. E. Scott, for the prisoner, moved that further proceedings be quashed, and the prisoner discharg-ed. These motions elicited lengthy and able arguments from counsel upon both sides, in which Messrs. R. E. Scott from counsel upon both sides, in which Messrs. R. E. Scott for the defence, and W. H. Payne and D. A. Radeliffe, of Washington city, for the Commonwealth, participated. The court refused the motion of the prisoner's counsel, and continued the case until the first day of the September term, as saveral important witnesses upon both sides were absent from the county. Mr. Scott applied for ball, which was granted, and the prisoner entered into bonds for $12,000 to appear; B. H. Shackelford, esq., is the security. At this stage of the proceedings, W. H. Payne, csq., Commonwealth's attorney, asked the court, in consideration of his near connexion with the prisoner, and the consequent delicate position he occupied, to excuse him from the further prosecution of the case, and to appoint some one else in his stead. The court granted his request and appointed James V. Brooke, esq., to conduct the case on the part of the Commonwealth. The witnesses present were then recognised each in the sum of $500 to appear at the September term.

Accident A. Scott applied for ball, the prisoner entered into bonds the consequent delicate position he occupied, to excuse him from the county, asked the court, in consideration of his near connexion with the prisoner, and the prisoner entered into bonds the consequent delicate position he county is the secondary of the latent president of the Uotted States authority to the Atlantic Telegraph cable to some American port."

The resolution has been seized upon by the Star to make a display of its talent for satire, and, in erdor to accomplish its purpose, it was under the necessity of asserting a gross falschood. The Star etacle is the necessity of the Louted States authority to the trining for the Washington city councils have no right to exercise the authority which the constitution gives him, and of course, only in the event of his consequent delicate position of the atlantic Telegraph cable somewhere upon the soil of the Count of the Count street, and two Irishmen were buried up to their waists beneath the stones and solid earth. By the exertions of their fellow-laborers they were soon relieved from the superincumbent mass, but not without sustaining serious injuries. One of them, by the name of Patrick Lynch, was badly hurt in his left hip, the joint being either fractured or dislocated; and he was removed in a carriage to his residence on English Hill. The other, whose name is Flinn, had no bones broken, but was severely bruised in the small of his back and his left leg; he was

PORTRAITS OF THE PRESIDENTS. - The portraits of John Quincy Adams, James K. Polk, and Franklin Pierce. painted by Healey, have been placed in the rotundo of the Capitol within a few days past, and attract much attention. They belong to the series of portraits of the Presidents of the United States, painted by that distinguished artist. The portraits of Van Buren and Fillmore have been on exhibition there for some time; and much surprise is expressed at the fact that while all the other portraits are only three-quarters length, the por-trait of Fillmore is full length. We have heard no reason assigned for this want of uniformity.

PROF. MACLEOD'S READINGS. -Quite a numerous and select assemblage enjoyed the illustrations of elecution given last night at Philharmonic Hall by this accomplished gentleman. The passages selected were such as are familiar to every literary tyro; but even in these new beauties were brought to light by the analytical powers of the elocutionist. At the close of his readings, Prof. MACLEOD announced his intention of devoting a few hours each week during the coming winter to the instruction of young gentlemen in the art of practical elecution. Many doubtless, will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity to cultivate this important branch of education

IMPROVEMENTS. A large number of first-class dwelling houses are now being creeted in this city; and the work on the various public buildings is progressing satisfactorily. We also notice that workmen are now engaged in putting the ornamental iron facing around the south and west fronts of the Patent Office, and grading and beauti fying the grounds adjacent to the new wing of that

A CARD FROM MR. MOHUN.

A CARD FROM MR. MOHUN.

Mr. Eorror: The Star having recently twice attempted to hold me up to ridicule by misrepresenting the tener of a resolution which I cofered in the Board of Common Council at its last meeting, it will esteem it a favor if you will allow me sufficient space in your paper to set myself right before the public.

A preamble and resolution was offered in the board expressive of the gratification felt by its members on the successful laying of the Atlantic cable, and for which I voted, believing that it was an event that would mark the present age, and configring-leadablibe benefit upon the civilized world. As the termini of the cable are on British sold, I inferred that the British government would have an advantage over our own; and wishing to place the United States on an equality with England in regard to the benefits that were expected to result from it, I offered the following resolution:

"Recoleved 15 the Board of Alberts and the Board of Common Council, That the Mayor be, and he is hereby, requested to wait on the President of the United States, and request his Excellency to open negotiation with the government of Great Britism, for the purpose of continuing a branch of the Atlantic Telegraph cable to some American port."

"Lord Derby has signified the willingness of the British government to so amend the charter of the Atlantic Telegraph Company at to place the United States and British government on a feeting of above the contraction."

to place the United States and British government on a beauty of acceptable equality."

I know not why Mr. Wallach, the editor of the Star, should be ackeen to assail me on the slightest pretence. I never did him any injury, unless he considers as such the willdarwal of my subscription from his paper when I found, during our last municipal election, that he had descried the democratic party. If he considers all his ememies who dropped his paper at that time, and for the same reason, he must, unless I am greatly misinformed, have a regiment of true and sout-hearted democrats in hostile array against him.

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

Washington, August 28, 1858

The following translation of a docree by the President of the Repub-lic of Holivia, reducing the duty on gray shirtings, was received this day from the United States consul at Cobija, and is published for the information of these whom it may concern: [Translation.] Jose Maria Linares, President of the republic of Bolivia, conside

Jose Maria Linares, President of the republic of Bonivia, considering—
That the duty of 40 per cent, taxed on gray shirtings (Tecuyos) imported, as being a similar article to the one manufactured in this republic, has not had the effect of forwarding this industry as expected, nor decreased the strongding of it;
That this fact is eastly ascertained by the immense quantity of foreign sbirtings abundant in all the markets of this republic without their being recorded among the articles imported through any of the oustom houses;
Having consulted the Secretaries of State, it is decreed:
From the 1st of July of the present year the duty on gray shirtings imported will be 15½ per cent, if through the custom house at La Paz, and 12½ per cent, if through the one at Cobin.

The Secretary of the Treasury is charged with the execution of this decree. ecree.
